Silicon Valley

1. Presence of a high ranked University
2. Cultural mix of experienced and high-talented entrepreneurs, investors, and academics
3. Wellness and quality of life mindset
4. People from many parts of the world
5. Risk and failure being embraced as part of the entrepreneurial journey
6. Authentic entrepreneurs with passion to make a difference in humanity

Silicon Valley

7. Well established patent industry
8. Passionate, authentic, driven by ideas, fearless, trustworthy and resilient people
9. No idea considered crazy
10. Venture Capital industry on virtuous cycle
11. Network culture of freely exchanging ideas

New York

1. Easy access to capital, as being close to the financial center of the world
2. The new on-going, long-term project for Cornell NYC Tech University campus
3. Tolerance for high risk and failure
4. A great sense of community, generosity and networking
5. NY Tech Meetup, a non-profit organization with over 36,000 members supporting the New York technology community (nytm.org)
6. Big angel investors community based on the giving back culture
7. Large community with open access to the business world.

Israel

1. Military service, which is a compulsory duty for all 18 year old Jews
2. The culture of doubt and argument, where leadership can always be questioned if it is reasonable
3. Assertiveness versus insolence; critical, independent thinking versus insubordination; ambition and vision versus arrogance
4. The historical background, which makes Israel a place where people want to improve and succeed
5. Incentives for employing immigrants, specially highly-qualified scientists and knowledge workers
6. Israel's smallness, which creates an opportunity to specialize in quality based on creativity.

Atlanta

- Top Universities
- Top Human Capital
- VC $
- Creative Entrepreneurs
- Great infrastructure

Hofstede's Power Distance

measures the extent to which the less powerful members of organizations and institutions (like the family) accept and expect that power is distributed unequally. This represents inequality (more versus less), but defined from below, not from above

Long Term Commitment

Individualism

Individualism (versus collectivism) is the degree to which individuals are integrated into groups. On the individualist side we find societies in which the ties between individuals are loose: everyone is expected to look after him/herself and his/her immediate family. On the collectivist side, we find societies in which people from birth onwards are integrated into strong, cohesive in-groups, often extended families which continue protecting them in exchange for unquestioning loyalty.

Ten Rules for Revolutionaries

1. Stop Imitating Silicon Valley

2. Tailor an ecosystem around your own particular characteristics

3. Engage the entrepreneurship stakeholders early on

4. Support the high potential entrepreneurs

5. Make successes visible

6. Change the culture head on.

7. Stress the roots: don't provide easy money

8. Pave the footpath. Clusters don't create entrepreneurs. Entrepreneurs create clusters

9. Remove bureaucratic obstacles for entrepreneurs

10. Experiment relentlessly and holistically
